Andy Warren is president of Arizona homebuilder Maracay, a member of the TRI Pointe Group (NYSE: TPH). Maracay is a Scottsdale, Arizona-based builder that focuses exclusively on the Arizona market, building communities in the greater Phoenix and Tucson areas.

Before joining Maracay in 2009, Mr. Warren devoted five years as partner and chief operating officer (COO) of EYA, LLC, a private, urban-infill homebuilder and developer based in Bethesda, Maryland, servicing the Washington, D.C. area. Prior to that, he spent 16 years in various capacities with Bethesda, Maryland-based Winchester Homes, ultimately serving as the company's executive vice president.

Mr. Warren is an executive committee board member and serves as chairman of the Greater Phoenix Economic Council (GPEC); he received GPEC's Distinguished Service Award in 2012. He also is a board member with the Home Builders Association of Central Arizona (HBACA), serves on the Urban Land Institute (ULI) Arizona Advisory Board, and is a past member of Greater Phoenix Leadership. His market insights have been quoted in national publications, including the New York Times and Wall Street Journal. Mr. Warren holds a Master of Business Administration (MBA) degree in finance from George Washington University and a bachelor's degree in business administration from Wake Forest University.
